Welcome | Dr. Carmen Elliott, DHS, CAE

The Amputee Coalition Announces Dr. Carmen Elliott, DHS, CAE, as New Chief Executive Officer

The Amputee Coalition is pleased to announce the appointment of Carmen Elliott, DHS, CAE, as its new President and Chief Executive Officer. Elliott brings more than two decades of leadership experience in healthcare associations, public policy, and nonprofit management.

Elliott joins the Amputee Coalition from the American Physical Therapy Association (APTA), where she served in several senior leadership roles, including Acting Chief of Staff, Executive Director of the Physical Therapy Fund, and Vice President of Payment Policy and Advancement areas. Throughout her career, Elliott has focused on strengthening organizations, improving healthcare coverage and participation, and building strong professional communities. At APTA, she led strategic initiatives across public policy, member engagement, fundraising, and organizational strategy, managing multimillion-dollar budgets and guiding initiatives that supported both professionals and patients.

“On behalf of the Board of Directors, we are thrilled to welcome Carmen Elliott as the Amputee Coalition’s next President and CEO,” said Carrie Davis, Board Chair of the Amputee Coalition. “Carmen brings a thoughtful leadership style, deep experience in healthcare associations, and a strong commitment to strengthening organizations and the communities they serve. We are confident her vision and experience will help guide the Coalition into its next chapter as we continue working to support people living with limb loss and limb difference.”

Elliott is a Certified Association Executive (CAE) and has recently completed her Doctor of Human Services (DHS) in Organizational Leadership at Capella University. She holds a Master of Science in Healthcare Management from Marymount University and a Bachelor of Science in Biology from Bowie State University.

Welcome!

“The Board conducted a thoughtful and comprehensive search, and Carmen stood out for both her leadership experience and her clear dedication to improving healthcare systems and community support,” said David Sanders, Secretary of the Amputee Coalition Board of Directors. “We look forward to working alongside her as the Amputee Coalition continues to expand resources, strengthen connections, and support individuals and families affected by limb loss and limb difference.”

Her leadership experience and commitment to strengthening support systems align closely with the Amputee Coalition’s mission to support people living with limb loss and limb difference. The organization looks forward to the impact of her leadership as it continues working alongside the community to strengthen support, connection, and participation for people affected by limb loss and limb difference.

Please join us in welcoming Dr. Carmen Elliott as the Amputee Coalition’s new President and Chief Executive Officer.

SPRING HEALTH & WELLNESS

CHECKING IN WITH YOURSELF

HEALTH & WELLNESS

As life picks up pace—whether you're preparing for a big event, managing work, or simply navigating everyday responsibilities—it's important to check in with yourself along the way. Mental health isn't something extra to “fit in.” It's part of how you move through the world, connect with others, and care for your whole self. Here are a few gentle reminders to help you stay grounded and supported.

EMOTIONAL WELL-BEING

Give yourself permission to feel what you feel—without rushing to fix it. Stress, excitement, overwhelm, and joy can all exist at the same time. Taking a few minutes each day to pause, breathe, or reflect can help you better understand what you need in the moment.

ROUTINE AND REST

Busy schedules can make it easy to push rest aside, but your mind needs recovery time just as much as your body. Try to keep a consistent sleep routine when possible, and build in small breaks throughout your day. Even a short reset can make a meaningful difference.

CONNECTION AND SUPPORT

You don't have to carry everything on your own. Engage with a friend, colleague, or support group can help you feel more supported and less alone. Meaningful connection—whether in person, over the phone, or through a message—can help more than you might expect.

STRESS MANAGEMENT

When things feel overwhelming, focus on what's within reach. Simple tools like deep breathing, getting outside for fresh air, or writing down your thoughts can help create space between you and the stress. Small actions can bring a sense of control during busy or uncertain moments.

DIGITAL AND MENTAL SPACE

Technology keeps us connected, but it can also be a constant source of noise. Consider setting boundaries with your devices—whether that's limiting notifications, taking short screen breaks, or unplugging before bed—to give your mind time to reset.

ENVIRONMENTAL WELLNESS

Your surroundings can influence how you feel. If possible, create a space—at home, work, or on the go—that feels calming and supportive. This might be a quiet corner, a favorite playlist, or simply a moment away from stimulation when you need it.

As you move through the days ahead, remember that caring for your mental health doesn't require a complete reset—it starts with small, intentional choices. Checking in with yourself, asking for support, and making space to rest can help you move forward with more clarity and confidence.

There's a moment at ACNC that's hard to put into words—but you know it when you feel it.

It's in the first hug. The first “I remember you.”

The first time someone shares a piece of their story—and you realize it sounds a lot like your own. At ACNC26 in Las Vegas, that feeling was everywhere.

Held at the Westgate Hotel in Las Vegas, this year's conference brought together attendees from 48 states and Canada to mark 40 years of the Amputee Coalition. Four decades of shared history, of showing up for one another, of building a community grounded in connection.

And this year, more than ever, that connection was the heartbeat of it all.

THE STRENGTH FOUND IN EACH OTHER

ACNC has always been about more than information—it's about people.

Yes, there were 33 breakout sessions, 9 clinic topics, and 20 roundtables. Important conversations around pregnancy and parenthood, overuse syndrome, osseointegration, insurance coverage, advocacy, and superbugs. There were demonstrations, screenings, and product theaters, including a Bluetooth-enabled prosthetic hand waving hello, a reminder of how far innovation has come.

But the real impact wasn't just in what was presented. It was in what was shared. Stories exchanged quietly after sessions. Tears when someone finally felt understood. Laughter that followed, because even in hard moments, there is still joy. Knowledge was not just delivered. It was experienced through conversation, through vulnerability, through connection.

STORIES THAT STAY WITH YOU

Some of the most powerful moments never make it to a stage.

Like the gentleman celebrating his birthday at the hotel, who came upon ACNC26 by chance. Within moments, he found a community he never knew existed and was welcomed in just as quickly.

We saw it in the more than 100 first-time attendees who arrived unsure and left with meaningful connections that will last well beyond the week.

We saw it in the youth gatherings and teen spaces, where young people found not just friendship, but understanding. A place where they did not have to explain themselves. They could simply be. And we saw it in reunions. Friends picked up right where they left off, whether it had been a year or much longer.

BUILT ON 40 YEARS OF SHOWING UP

This was not just another conference. It was a reflection of what has been built over 40 years. Forty years of people choosing to come together.

To listen.

To learn.

To support.

To advocate.

To build something that lasts.

A legacy carried forward in every conversation and every shared moment of understanding. It lives on through 61 newly trained Certified Peer Visitors and 15 who recertified, continuing the work of making sure no one has to navigate this journey alone.

It shows up in the volunteers who give their time to create these spaces, and in collaborations like SciMAC that continue to strengthen care and move the community forward.

#ACNC26

LAUGHTER, JOY, AND BEING FULLY YOURSELF

And then there were the moments of pure joy. The “I Want to Dance With Some BODY” 80s dance party. Pickleball night at Chicken N Pickle. The laughter that filled the room during Michael Beers’ comedy set. These moments matter.

Because connection isn’t just built through shared challenges—it’s built through shared joy. Through laughing, and letting yourself be fully present with people who understand your journey.

VOICES THAT GROUND US

Our keynote speakers, Dr. James Dixon, Katy Sullivan, and Bill Zabelny, each brought reflections that reminded us why this work matters. Their words stayed with us, but so did the conversations they sparked. The moments where someone turned to the person next to them and said, “That spoke to me.”

WHAT WE TAKE WITH US

ACNC26 wasn’t just about what we learned—it was about what we carry forward. The knowledge gained. The stories shared. The tears and the laughter. The friendships strengthened. The new connections formed. And that feeling of coming home. Because for so many, that’s what ACNC is. Not just a place. Not just an event. But a community that meets you where you are—and reminds you that you’re never alone.

STRONGER, TOGETHER

After 40 years, one thing is clear: The strength of this community isn’t just in what we’ve built. It is in how people continue to show up for one another. ACNC26 was a reminder that connection matters. That shared experiences create understanding. And that together, we are stronger than we could ever be alone. Las Vegas wasn’t just where we gathered. It was where we reconnected with each other, with purpose, and with a community that continues to feel like home.

APRIL IS LIMB LOSS AND LIMB DIFFERENCE AWARENESS MONTH!

We've Got One Simple Ask: Show Us Your 40!

There's no single path to participate this year.

We just want to see what "40" looks like for you.

That could be:

- 40 movements—big or small
- Raising or donating $40
- 40 acts of kindness
- Creating through the Mixed Medium Art Challenge
- Taking part in the Proclamation Challenge
- Showing your mettle
- Becoming a Certified Peer Visitor (CPV)
- Or something completely your own

No rules. No pressure. Just participation that reflects who you are.

Show Us Your 40!
#LLLDAM2026

This Is About Community in Action

April is more than a moment—it's a movement.

A chance to:

- Share your story.
- Amplify real experiences.
- Build connections that last beyond the month.

Whether you've been part of this community for years or are just getting started, your voice belongs here.

Make It Visible. Make It Count.

Throughout April:

- Wear orange on Wednesdays
- Take part in Show Your Mettle Day on April 25
- Share your story using #LLLDDAM2026, #ShowUsYour40, and #40YearsStrong

Let's show up—together.

LLLDDAM2026

Make a Difference. Be the Difference.

Our Certified Peer Visitor (CPV) Training gives you the tools and confidence to support others on their limb-loss or limb-difference journey.

What to Expect:

Through this interactive, 8-hour training, you'll learn how to provide meaningful, peer-to-peer support in real-life settings—whether that's in person, in the hospital, at community events, or virtually. You'll leave prepared to serve as an official Amputee Coalition Certified Peer Visitor, ready to uplift and guide others on their journey. April is more than a moment—it's a movement.

A chance to:

- Share your story.
- Amplify real experiences.
- Build connections that last beyond the month.

Whether you've been part of this community for years or are just getting started, your voice belongs here. Learn more at LLLDAM.Amputee-Coalition.org

One Gift. One Community. One Powerful Year Ahead – A Personal Message from the Amputee Coalition.

The Staff Who Carry This Mission Forward Every Day

Behind every resource, every call, every connection, there is a person—one of our dedicated staff members—working quietly and tirelessly to make sure people feel supported and understood. They're the ones who answer the phone and say, "How can I help?"

They're the ones who creatively match a Peer Support volunteer with someone who really needs a friend.

They're the ones preparing youth events, reviewing legislation, updating resources, answering emails, supporting caregivers, and doing the kind of unseen work that changes lives every single day.

Many of our staff members are themselves members of this community. Others have dedicated their entire careers to this community. All of them care deeply about making sure people feel safe, respected, and valued.

Your $40 helps keep this team going.

It gives them the tools and training they need to continue showing up for people in ways that are real, human, and full of heart.

As we begin our 40th Anniversary Celebration, we're taking a moment to look back—at the people we've met, the stories we've heard, and the many ways this community continues to lift one another up. Next year will mark forty years of supporting the limb loss and limb difference community.

In honor of that milestone, there's something simple and powerful we want to share with you:

If everyone in our community gave just $40, we could fully fund an entire year of programs, services, and support.

It sounds almost unbelievable, but it's true. Your $40—paired with thousands of others—becomes a year of connection, comfort, and care for our community.

Express Creativity, Share Your Story

Join the Mixed Medium Art Challenge

As we mark the 40th anniversary of the Amputee Coalition, we're continuing the Mixed-Medium Art Gallery as a way for members of our community to share their creativity and the stories that shape their journeys.

Art can capture moments, emotions, and experiences that words sometimes cannot. This gallery invites people from across the limb loss and limb difference community to express themselves in their own unique way. Whether you have been creating art for years or are simply exploring your creativity for the first time, we would love to see what you create.

Submissions are welcome in any medium, including painting, photography, sculpture, collage, fiber art, mixed materials, and digital art. Every piece brings a new perspective and adds to the collective story of our community. Selected pieces may be featured in an online gallery, giving others the opportunity to experience the creativity, strength, and individuality that make our community so special.

We can't wait to see the stories you choose to share through your art.

How to Submit: Visit the link to upload your submission and include a brief description of your art.

LLLDAM 2026: Plan Your April Social Media Posts

Each week in April offers a chance to reflect, connect, and grow:

- Week 1: Share Your Story – How did your journey begin?
- Week 2: Then vs. Now – What has changed? What have you learned?
- Week 3: Community Strong – Who has supported you along the way?
- Week 4: Knowledge – What do you wish others knew?
- Week 5: Legacy – What will you carry into the next 40 years?

These aren't just prompts—they're opportunities to build understanding and connection across the community.

SEBCM ACTIVATION CELEBRATION AND DOCUMENTARY PREMIERE AT AAOP 2026: A NIGHT THAT SHOWED WHAT'S POSSIBLE

This month at the AAOP 52nd Annual Meeting and Scientific Symposium, we gathered for our biannual SEBCM Activation Celebration—and it was one of those moments that stays with you.

The room was filled with advocates, coalition leaders, clinicians, partners, and legislators—all united by a shared commitment to expanding access to prosthetic, orthotic, and mobility care. And in that space, one thing was clear: this work is bigger than any one state, any one bill, or any one organization. It's a collective effort—and it's working.

With the support of our SEBCM Steering Committee partner, the American Academy of Orthotists and Prosthetists, we were proud to spotlight our SEBCM Tennessee coalition. We heard directly from local advocates and from Senator Shane Reeves, the SEBCM Tennessee bill sponsor, whose leadership reflects what can happen when policymakers truly listen and engage with their communities.

The evening was grounded in lived experience thanks to the Cole and Cooper families from the Jordan Thomas Foundation community. They shared what fair access has meant for their daughters—bringing into focus what this work is really about: participation, opportunity, dignity, and connection.

We are deeply grateful to the Jordan Thomas Foundation for their partnership and for the leadership they continue to bring. Their families and advocates are helping shape what access looks like—not just in Tennessee, but across the country.

The night concluded with the premiere of a fine cut of the SEBCM documentary. As it played, the room grew quiet. You could feel the weight of what has been accomplished in just a few short years—and the responsibility of what comes next.

This documentary captures more than legislative progress. It tells the story of a growing movement built on courage, persistence, and collaboration. It reflects the momentum behind passing legislation in 28 states by the LA 2028 Paralympic Games—and the foundation being laid for federal reform.

We'll be sharing the final version soon, along with details for a national tour and ways to bring a screening to your own community.

From all of us at SEBCM, thank you to Cole Carlson and Tamarack HTI for sponsoring the celebration, to our SEBCM Tennessee leaders for their care and leadership, and to AAOP for creating space for this community to come together, reflect, and recommit.

Thank you as well to our Steering Committee—Amputee Coalition, AOPA, AAOP, and NAAOP—and our Vision Council partners: Bionic P&O, Brain Robotics, Cascade, Click Medical, Hanger Clinic, and Rifton Equipment. Your continued support is helping move this work forward in meaningful ways.

“My name is Isaiah Williams. I’m a 23 year old bilateral below-knee amputee living with Riboflavin transporter deficiency type 2, a rare genetic disease that rendered me legally blind and hard of hearing at the ages of 18-20. I’ve been an amputee since I was 10 months old. Growing up disabled wasn’t easy. For years I desired a space full of people who didn’t define me by what I didn’t have, but by who I really am. It was isolating at times, and I’ve always felt like I had something to prove.

I attended as a camper when I was 16, and for the first time, I was surrounded by those who shared my experience and it was powerful. I didn’t have to be defined by my disability, I could just be me. That week gave me a new sense of confidence and perspective that I needed since a young child. Years later, I became legally blind and nearly deaf due to RTD type 2. It was hard to imagine myself returning to a space like camp or anything that previously felt familiar. I questioned whether I belonged again, especially this time in a position of leadership. Through some convincing, I made my way back to camp in 2025 as a counselor. Doubts I had about myself faded away throughout the week, and the feelings I felt as a teenager were present again. Although there were and still are challenges, fellow counselors and campers welcomed me without hesitation.

Going back to camp with new disabilities not only reminded me of the power of this community, it inspired me to ensure that all youth and adults can belong and achieve amazing things regardless of the obstacles in front of them. I was able to touch on this in a speech I gave at the amputee national conference. Sharing my story on that stage felt important. Not just for reflecting on my journey, but to inspire and reach others who might be in similar positions I was in.”

ONE COMMUNITY. COUNTLESS STORIES.

Partnership Highlight: Camp Aranzazu (ah-RAN-zah-zoo)

As the Amputee Coalition celebrates 40 years of community, advocacy, and empowerment, we are especially grateful to celebrate alongside a place that has helped make some of our most meaningful youth experiences possible. This year, our incredible partners at Camp Aranzazu are celebrating 20 years of camping, belonging, and service — and we couldn't imagine our Youth Camp without them. We are proud to celebrate these milestones together and honor the partnership that allows us to walk side by side in serving youth in the limb loss and limb difference community.

Nestled along the beautiful coast of Rockport, Texas, Camp Aranzazu sits on 100 acres of accessible campgrounds designed to welcome campers of all ages and abilities. As an American Camp Association–accredited camp, they have built something truly special: a safe place where accessibility, belonging, and adventure go hand in hand.

Their guiding belief says it best:

“Camp Aranzazu cultivates belonging for campers of all ages and abilities by creating accessible, empowering, and intentional camp experiences in a coastal environment.”

And they live that mission every single day.

From sunrise over the bay to evenings full of laughter, our campers experience the very best of camp life together — swimming in two incredible pools, testing their aim at archery, sailing and fishing along the bayfront, paddling kayaks, braving The Screamer, exploring nature and animals, creating in arts & crafts, and soaking in those unforgettable coastal sunsets. Every activity is designed so campers can participate fully, confidently, and joyfully.

But what truly makes Camp Aranzazu magical isn't just the beautiful setting — it's the people. The dedicated staff create an environment where every camper feels safe, supported, and celebrated for exactly who they are.

The story of Camp Aranzazu is rooted in generosity and vision. From 1959 to 1996, the grounds served as the Bishop Elliott Conference Center, an Episcopal Church retreat facility. In 1997, founders Tom and Holly Forney purchased the first 20 acres of coastal land to enjoy with their family. A few years later, they felt called to share the property with others, founding Camp Aranzazu as a nonprofit in 2006.

The name Aranzazu (ah-RAN-zah-zoo) is a Basque term meaning “a spiritual place requiring a difficult path to reach.” While Camp Aranzazu works toward eliminating as many barriers as possible and making each activity accessible, they recognize that many campers arrive navigating their own difficult paths. Here, surrounded by nature and community, campers can leave behind the stresses of medical or physical challenges and simply be kids — building friendships, discovering independence, and forging their own paths forward.

As we reflect on 40 years of the Amputee Coalition, we are deeply thankful for the 20 years of impact from Camp Aranzazu and the partnership that allows our youth campers to experience a week filled with confidence, connection, and pure camp joy.

Together, we are proving something powerful: spaces of belonging shouldn't be rare — they should be the norm.

Here's to many more summers of adventure, friendship, and unforgettable memories on the Texas coast.

“At Camp Aranzazu, our work is rooted in a belief that belonging is built through intentional partnerships. Our collaboration with the Amputee Coalition exemplifies what’s possible when national leadership and deep expertise meet a camp environment designed for access, dignity, and connection. Together, we are creating experiences that empower youth from across the country to arrive as they are—and leave knowing they belong.”
